

DRINKS MENU

NORTH

Northern Argentina's climate is mild, with remarkable thermal amplitudes and extraordinary atmospheric transparency. Summers are long and occasionally late freezes occur in spring. The vineyards in Salta are some of the highest in the world producing some of the best wines in Argentina.

CUYO

Most viticulture in Argentina takes place in the foothills of the Andes, and most famously in Mendoza, where desert landscapes and high altitudes combine to make a terroir that gives rise to aromatic, intensely flavored red wines. Increased levels of solar radiation and a high diurnal temperature variation make for a long, slow ripening period, leading to balanced sugars and acidity in the grapes.

PATAGONIA

The climate is warm, with cold nights and intense droughts. Predominant winds are very strong and flow in direction West-Southeast. Winds are beneficial for the vineyard's sanity due to the fact that they mitigate cryptogamic diseases. Another outstanding climate feature is the average level of sunlight exposure.
